Good afternoon,

I have received your notice of cancellation of tonight's meeting to be rescheduled for Sept 25. The homeowners of the South End, with the support of the South End NRZ, wish to create a study committee to do analysis of the historic merits of what is left of our neighborhood and help preserve what we can in accordance with the 2015 Master Plan.

Ralph Blessing LUB Chief has checked with the law dept. and the decision to approve the study committee is in the hands of the Board of Representatives. Looking forward to presenting our case.

Respectfully,

Sue Halpern

Vice Pres of NRZ.

Sue – your note makes it sound like this is an official South End NRZ initiative. How can this be? We are NRZ members and have been to every NRZ meeting in the last 12 months but this topic has never been presented or even discussed.

I checked the City website and it is not in any of the meeting notices or the meeting minutes posted on the City website. I also checked all of my personal meeting notes. Did we miss it?

I have talked to many other property owners who don't know anything about this initiative and don't support it. Given that this type of initiative is required to get 2/3 of all affected property owners to ratify, what is your basis for thinking that this concept has the kind of broad support it would need to be put in place?

Most of the people don't know what this is its never discussed in meetings . Most LLC would never agree to any more historic oversight . Older home owners are worried about property values and the opportunity work on their property without undue scrutiny and restrictions other than whats permitted.

Many on my street and streets around it want newer development like on Elmcroft and upper Ludlow . 90 Ludlow would be a good example . Lets look Elmcroft condos both property's were old homes turned into something newer and more appealing to the neighborhood.

Why shouldn't more people have that opportunity? The city or anyone who wants to change the category of where people live and own houses /businesses should do a mailing that includes everyone effected before making this huge decision ... inclusion , transparency and shared information promotes a healthy community . The secrecy and hidden agendas have to stop . The NRZ should not be beholden to historic preservation or any other special interest group or group members . Revitalization and a clear plan for all in the south end....thanks for reading John

Charles/Matt – I understand this item will be discussed next month. We appreciate you having us at that meeting.

I wanted to bring the email exchange below to your attention. John Wooten (note below) is a long-time member of the NRZ and lives on Stone Street which is primarily a owner-occupied street, and Elise Coleman you of course know well.

We are members of the South End NRZ and attend all meetings (I have personally been attending meetings since 2005). The item below is described as being brought forward “with the support of the South End NRZ” but that it totally inaccurate – it has never even been discussed or presented at an NRZ meeting, let alone voted on as an actual initiative.

The NRZ notices and meeting minutes on the City website will show this, we have also attended all meetings in the last year and are confident that this has not been discussed.

This is an initiative being pursued by a very small group of anti-development individuals – they do not include a broad representation of the neighborhood. They are the exact same group that brought the B&S Carting appeal (another item inaccurately described as an NRZ initiative).
