Did you know 80% of Ocean Pollution is Land Sourced?

Stamford Land Conservation Trust's Annual Meeting October 16, 2019

Stamford, September 18, 2019: That's right. What we do on land effects our waterways too.

Join us at SLCT's 2019 Annual Meeting to hear Jack Egan, CT Chair of Surfrider Foundation, discuss how we can improve our conservation habits and help protect our environment – on land and in our oceans!

In his presentation, From Source to Solution-Renew, Reuse and Recycle, Jack will review where much of the plastic comes from and where it's doing the most damage. Importantly, he'll share ideas about changes we can make to live greener and reduce our waste footprint, including getting our kids involved!

SLCT will also be honoring past President, Richard Chiaramonte, with the 2019 SLCT Conservation Award. Rich was a committed conservationist before his association with SLCT and remains actively involved with a number of regional conservation partnerships. The Trust was fortunate to have Rich's guidance during his 12-year tenure on the board, 11 of them as president.

Where and When: SLCT Annual Meeting at the new Knobloch Family Farmhouse Education Center at the Stamford Museum & Nature Center, 151 Scofieldtown Rd, on Wednesday, October 16, 2019, 6:30-9:30 PM. Plenty of parking. Light snacks and refreshments provided.

About Stamford Land Conservation Trust ("SLCT"): SLCT was founded in 1972 to preserve the benefits of open space in Stamford by acquiring and managing land preserves throughout the city. Together, these preserves enhance the livability and environmental sustainability of Stamford. Today, through the efforts of its volunteers and donors, the SLCT protects over 57 preserves comprising over 450 acres. The SLCT is a member supported 501(c) (3) tax deductible organization funded entirely through its donors. More information on the SLCT and its activities can be found at www.stamfordland.org

About Surfrider Foundation: The Surfrider Foundation is dedicated to the protection and enjoyment of the world's ocean, waves and beaches through a powerful activist network. Surfrider Foundation has 81 Chapters and 85 Youth Clubs around the Country and growing. Find more information at www.surfrider.org
